About me

I am a dev who turned devops.

As a consultant and then DevOps architect at Red Hat I began my path to the Ops side. Naturally I completed my range of existing skills in dev and CI by pushing my way through new subjects like infrastructure, cloud, automation, orchestration, security, high availability, monitoring, performance...
I appreciate being able to get a global understanding of a project, finding the best way to achieve final goal taking into account specific constraint and caring of choices consequences.
I'm an Open Source believer.
